

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A naphthoquinone derivative is utilized in an electrophotographic photoreceptor as an electron-transporting material. The electrophotographic photoreceptor is improved in terms of solubility in an organic solvent, compatibility with a binder resin, and electron transport capability.